CURRENT COURSES

My student rapport, mentoring and teaching evaluations are consistently excellent. My specialty for twenty years is designing and running fieldwork training courses in ethnography and social economy/ecology.

Committed to teaching, I provide five courses on an annual basis from January-July (Spring Semester, Summer and January Intersession).

MSC 419 Field Research Galapagos, 3 cr. Spring 2006-ongoing.

MAF 505 Fieldwork Course in Coastal Cultures, 3 cr. (Spring 1986-ongoing) Spring course annually scheduled as core for MA in MAF, and as a graduate level course recommended for undergraduate MAF and APY majors.

MAF 506 Advanced Research Course, 3 cr. for graduate students, or advanced undergraduate with MAF 505 as the prerequisite.

MAF 501 Political Ecology of Marine Resources, 3 cr. Spring course annually scheduled as graduate core for MA in MAF; core for undergraduate MAF; recommended for APY majors.

APY 202/101 Introduction to Anthropology, 3 cr. Taught alternate spring semesters with APY 398. A number of students from this class go on to take APY 398.

APY 398 Coastal Cultures, 3 cr. Spring course including awareness and compassion training for anthropological research.

APY 502 Ethnographic Fieldwork in Southeast Asia, 3-6 cr. (Continuing Studies, Summer 1998-ongoing)

MSC 412 Galapagos Fieldwork, 3-6 cr. (Continuing Studies, Summer 2003-ongoing)
